Honor Code Completed; Students to Vote May 11

The long-awaited academic honor code is now complete. A product of six month's work, the proposed code was presented in its final form to the Student Association by Michael McCann '65 in a Monday night meeting.

Approval was given to bring the proposed code to a vote of the student body May 11. The text of the code is as follows:

"The Student Association Cabinet of Middlebury College recommends to the student body an Academic Honor System whereby all classroom activities will be based upon student honor. Integrity and honesty are the central presuppositions of the system, and the sole means of regulating academic endeavor. It is assumed that students recognize the pact of honor the system requires.

"The System will be administered in the following ways:

1. The student shall write in full and sign the pledge 'I have neither given nor received aid on this examination,' at the end of all examinations and quizzes.

2. The faculty member shall leave the room during examinations and quizzes after giving out tests and answering questions. It is recommended that he remain available for student questioning for the duration of the examination.

3. The student may leave the examination room at any time, leaving examination papers behind.

4. Any student or faculty member becoming aware of a violation shall make this known to the offender within three days, allowing the offender a

Houses and Dorm Lounges Will be Opened to Women

by SANDRA STEINGLASS
News Editor

The Student Iife Committee approved two changes in Middlebury's social code yesterday.

The group ratified proposals that fraternity houses be opened to Middlebury women unchaperoned on Friday afternoons between 4 and 7 p. m., and on Saturday and Sunday afternoons between 12 noon and 7 p. m.; and that the lounges in Stewart, Gifford and Hepburn Halls be opened to Middlebury women during the same times as those proposed for the fraternities, again unchaperoned."

The new rules will become effective when the Deans advise the President that appropriate preparations have been made.

Provision for the initiation of the reforms will require a recognition of responsibility by the students, according to Peter Delfausse, president of the Student Association. For example, fraternities may be required to write letters in support of the program and in recognition of accepted responsibility.

Further, All women visiting fraternities during the open hours might be requested to sign a guest book, Delfausse added. Delfausse will meet with Thomas Reynolds, dean of men, to conclude the final arrangements next week. "We hope the provisions will go into effect before the close of the school year," he noted.

Responsibility for the enforcement of the social code will be placed on the individual, the fraternity the Interfraternity Council, and the Deans' office in that order," Delfausse concluded.

Debaters 2nd At Norwich

NANCY LONG: Winner of a special trophy at Norwich.

Middlebury's novice debate team clinched second place in Norwich University's annual Novice Debate Tournament with an 8-2 record last weekend. Nancy Long '67 ranked as best negative speaker in the competition, according to Dr. Frederick Bowman, director of debate.

Brenda Booth '66 and Miss Long were undefeated on the negative, earning wins over the University of Maine, the University of Vermont, Princeton University, City College of New York, and first place Iona College. Tad Crawford and Barbara Pearce, both '67, won three of five debates on the affirmative.

Seventeen schools competed in the two day tournament, which featured events in extemporaneous and persuasive speaking.

The annual prize debate with the University of Vermont has been rescheduled to May 7. The audience debate will begin at 8 p. m. in Proctor Lounge.

Choir Music Will Span Centuries In Annual Spring Concert Sunday

by SANFORD SHAW

Dramatic and liturgical music from the thirteenth century to the present will be highlighted in the chapel choir's annual spring concert. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Browne, the program is scheduled for 8:15 p. m. Sunday night in Mead Memorial Chapel.

Excerpts from The Play of Daniel, a recently-revived thirteenth century musical drama, will comprise the evening's first dramatic offering. Handel's "Passion of Jesus Christ," with Marvin Kelley and Kenneth Moore, both '64, as soloists, and selections from "Dido and Aeneas" by Purcell are to follow. The soloists for the Purcell number will be Carolyn Holmes '66 as Belinda, Alexandra Connelly '64 as Dido, and Donna Youngblood '67 as the Witch.

Among the liturgical works the choir is to perform are the "Gloria Deo" by Dufay, two motets for men's voices by Festa and de Vittoria, two motets for women's voices by Lassus, and two antiphonal numbers by Gombert and Palestrina.

The madrigal group, conducted by Kelley, will sing two motets, "Tristis Est Anima Mea" by Kuhnau and "De Profundus" by Gluck.

A preview of a modern version of the Twenty-third Psalm by Dwayne Davidson for chorus and full orchestra, which is to be performed at commencement in June, will add an example of contemporary choral works to the varied program. For Sunday's concert a piano will replace the orchestra.

Providing the instrumental music for the program will be Elizabeth Ramsey '64, William Lord '65, and Robert Palin '66.

Also to be presented by the choir at commencement are the "Ockeghem," a musical work recently rediscovered from 400-year-old manuscripts, and selections from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," a popular nineteenth-century opera.

Moore Receives Fulbright Award

A Fulbright scholarship providing full payment of tuition and expenses for study abroad during the 1964-65 academic year has been awarded to Kenneth Moore '64.

Entering the Faculty of Letters at the University of Paris this fall, Moore will take courses in the area of European influences on American history and will do a case study on certain aspects of the "Lost Generation."

Although the scholarship terminates in June 1965, Moore plans to spend the subsequent summer in Europe as well. He will then return to the United States to do graduate work toward a doctorate in history at an American university.

Council Sets Student Fine

An infraction of the Firearms Code resulted in a $50 fine for a Middlebury student last Thursday, according to Richard Ide '65, Men's Chief Justice.

A sophomore was found guilty of possessing an unregistered gun at a Judicial Council meeting Thursday. Ide stated that this was just one in a series of firearms infractions. "We are led to believe that there are a lot of unregistered firearms around," he explained.

The council also heard four other cases involving student infractions of various college regulations.

One junior failed to make the required report to the dean about a conviction and arrest for speeding. Because he did not attend the meeting, he was automatically fined $25.

Ide stressed the importance of students' reporting all convictions and or arrests made by legal and police authorities.

The other two infractions concerned a traffic misdemeanor and a student's failure to register a motor vehicle. The latter's driving privileges have been suspended for one year.

'L'Avare' Set For Friday, Saturday

Proceeds of this weekend's French Club presentation, L'Avare, will go to the Rose Martin Memorial Scholarship Fund and Le Cercle Francais. The farce, by, French playwright Moliere, is set for Friday and Saturday night at 8:15 in Wright Memorial Theatre.

M. Claude Bourcier, French department chairman, will appear in the title role as well as directing the comedy. Because of Bourcier's absence, the an-

22 Inducted Into Blue Key

Twenty-two "utstanding" men gained admittance to Middlebury's Blue Key Honor Society this evening at a 7 o'clock tapping ceremony in Mead Chapel.

Six seniors were recognized in the 35th annual ceremony as Newton Baker, Alan Dewart, Peter Meyer, Smith Mowry, Roger Simon, and John Taylor each received a Blue Key.

The eleven juniors selected were: Randolph Brock, Marshall Eddy, Peter Glenn, Bruce Gunther, Robert Hall, Lawrence Leahy, Norman Lowe, Joseph McLaughlin, Craig Smith, Howard Tolley and Edward Weissman.

Five sophomore men were also tapped: Fred Beams, Glenn Govertson, Wayne Halliwell, Roger Herrmann, and Peter Marks.

Others Tapped Trophy Awarded

Jeffrey Newsom and Charles Weed both '65 received the Blue Key Scholarship Award. The $100 award was made on the basis of financial need and personal qualities which exemplify the ideals of the Blue Key.

The Freshman Trophy, presented to the freshman who has best shown his class spirit in "manhood, scholarship, and sportsmanship," was awarded to Richard Hall.

The Waubanaukee Honor Society recognized a select group of juniors and seniors within the Blue Key after the Blue Key tapping. Manhood, scholarship and sportsmanship are the criteria for recognition in both honor societies.

Head Start

In its recent report to the faculty, the Student Educational Policy Committee recommended that reading lists for independent study be circulated before the summer recess. It seems only logical that many students would like to get a "head start" on their work before fall.

The same rationale can be applied in all courses. When the student returns to Middlebury in September he is frequently confronted with several lengthy book lists which must be digested before the end of the semester. Too often these get pushed aside in the early rush of a new school year and many books remain unread at the semester's conclusion.

If professors could distribute a book list in May, before classes end, many students would welcome the opportunity to give direction to their summer reading. Perhaps others would feel obliged to begin work and thus relieve pressures of the coming year. Finally, advance reading might show an individual that his preconception of a course's subject matter was totally deficient. He would still have time in September to schedule a course more in keeping with his interest.

Although many faculty members already make a practice of distributing reading lists in May, a large number do not. To prepare and circulate a booklist in Spring would not place great demands on these professors and it would be of incalculable service to many of their students.

The Old and the New

The traditional Blue Key tapping ceremony in Mead Chapel took on new meaning this evening when twenty-two men were admitted to the society.

No longer is membership in the society contingent solely on athletic ability or affiliation with a particular fraternity. No longer does the society eagerly plan a program of hazing for the incoming freshman class. Recognition in the society is now, more than ever, dependent on a student's overall contribution to Middlebury and "honorable" goals have been formulated for the honor group.

The Blue Key in its long tradition has presumably symbolized Manhood, Scholarship, and Sportsmanship. The members selected tonight are truly representative of these ideals.

In the future the organization will play a new role on campus. The proposal to sponsor two speakers in the coming year illustrates the Key's desire to offer a positive contribution to the college, indicating that membership brings not only honor but certain responsibilities.

This year's society must be lauded for the reforms introduced into the Blue Key as its new initiates accept the legacy of an honorable society.

Public and Prep School Grads: Who Does Better?

By JOHN RAGSDALE
Features Editor

The relative benefits of prep schools and high schools are often contrasted as to their worth in producing good college material. Some argue that individual attention and good teaching make preparatory schools better, while others claim that the wider competition of public schools produce better students.

According to Ronald Potier, assistant dean of men, high school students are "more highly motivated as they come from a more competitive situation." In contrast, he continued, the prep schooler is "more worldly and sophisticated. He knows his way around and possesses all the correct expressions. As he has had much of the material before in high school, he rests on his oars while the high school student paddles like crazy."

The only pertinent proof, however, comes from a comparative study of the collegiate achievements of the two groups. Because Middlebury has a male student body of approximately equal prep-public distribution, an overall study of the respective achievements can be fairly valid if certain qualifications are kept in mind.

Needed Qualifications

For instance, public school students are generally drawn from the top third of the class, while the prep school students are scattered through the class ranks. The sample presented here does not take into account the overall average, but rather considers only top students. A sample involving everyone would require analysis of 10,000 sets of grades alone.

The following are the number of students in the top fifteen during the given academic term:

Class of '63, second semester 1962 - 1963
HS 12 PREP 3
Class of '63, overall four year average
HS 14 PREP 1
Class of '64, first semester 1962-1963
HS 13 PREP 2
Class of '64, second semester 1962 - 1963
HS 12 PREP 3
Class of '65, year. 1962 - 1963
HS 10 PREP 5
Class of '66, first semester 1962 - 1963
HS 10 PREP 5
Class of '66, second semester 1962 - 1963
HS 12 PREP 3

The following list is the three year male "flunk-out" rate:

1962 - 1963	HS	12	PREP	29
1961 - 1962	HS	16	PREP	29
1960 - 1961	HS	20	PREP	25

The following list is the number of junior fellows taken from each of the two groups during the last three years.

Class of '63	HS	10	PREP	13
Class of '64	HS	17	PREP	6
Class of '65	HS	18	PREP	12

The following list includes the proportion of Blue Key members in the last three years:
HS 19 PREP 27

The Judicial Council for the last two years.
HS 7 PREP 6

Assorted academic prizes and fellowships for the last two years:
HS 15 PREP 8

In the brief analysis presented above, the figures seem to uphold Dean Potier's hypothesis. The highschoolers do better on the academic side, while more overall inclusive activities, such as the Blue Key, show a prep school majority. Junior fellows, exemplifying both academic and extracurricular activities, come fairly equally from both ranks.

Local Players Plan Summer Bard Readings

In celebration of the Shakespeare Quadricentennial, the Saint Barnabas Players will present a summer repertoire of the master's works according to John Wallach '64.

The six-member troupe comprised of students from Bennington and Middlebury will perform every Friday and Saturday evening from June 27-Sept. 5 at the Saint Barnabas Episcopal Church in East Middlebury; the arrangement for a theater was concluded by the Rev. Ellis of St. Stephen's Church in Middlebury.

The players will take their repertoire, "Shakespeare's World or What You Will," through five states, where they hope to perform at camps and summer theaters, Sunday through Thursday evenings.

Organized by John Wallach '64 the cast will include four actors, a musician and a balladeer.

The repertoire will feature scenes from As You Like It, Hamlet, King Lear, Macbeth, A Midsummer's Night Dream Romeo and Juliet, The Tempest, Twelfth Night and A Winter's Tale.

Blood Drive Total Drops; Sig Ep, TCO Donate Most

JOHN O'BRIEN: One wonders if he looks sick or not as a nurse experiments with his arm in last Monday's blood drive.

Middlebury College's 24th semi-annual blood drive Monday, netted approximately 235 pints, 15 pints under last Fall's total.

Sigma Epsilon led the fraternities with the highest percentage of donors with Phi Kappa Tau ranking second. Theta Chi Omega produced the highest sorority percentage with Sigma Kappa second.

Approximately 17 percent of the total campus donated blood; there were about 15 rejections.

John Buttolph '65 and Michael McCann '64 will receive "golden drops" for giving a gallon of blood over the years at Middlebury.

The percentages are as follows:

Letters To The Editor

Unfair

To the Editor:

In the meeting of the Interfraternity Council last night Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity was convicted on a charge of dirty rushing, for which they were severely penalized.

After hearing a description of the proceedings from one of the IFC representatives from our fraternity, it was obvious that the only crime was violation of the "spirit" of dirty rushing, and that the penalty was far too severe for the nature of the crime.

We would suggest that the real reason for the severity of this penalty was hate. It is indeed shocking to think that an organization embodying as much power as the IFC is dominated by unjustified hate and petty grievances.

To the other fraternities (our own included) we would say beware. Hate breeds more hate, and where one group is the victim of it, no group is safe.

Finally we would say that we, as members of a fraternity, are ashamed of this example of hate which the fraternity system seems to thrive on.

(The views expressed in this letter are our own, and do not necessarily reflect the views of our fraternity.)

Help Week

To the Editor:

After careful consideration of the merits of the annual Help Week sponsored by Middlebury fraternities, and also considering the consequences of nonparticipation, the Brothers of Kappa Delta Rho have decided that it is not to the benefit of anyone concerned (the village of Middlebury, the college administration, or the fraternities) to take part in such a program as it now stands. The purpose of this letter is to indicate to the college students and officials, and the townspeople, the motives behind this decision in the hopes that some similar but more worthwhile program may be instituted.

First, it was called to the attention of the brothers by last year's work party chairman that the town officials with which the program is supposed to be coordinated did not give much cooperation, either in time, tools, encouragement, or jobs other than those which village employees should do anyway.

Also, it was apparent last year that not all fraternities were wholeheartedly behind the project, and there were instances where work was either avoided or incorrectly reported as being completed. As further evidence of this divided interest, this year's IFC was almost evenly split on whether to continue with the present program. It would seem to us that a project such as Help Week, if valuable at all, should be enthusiastically accepted by all houses as a general means of doing something worthwhile for others and also giving the village and college administraton a solid and sincere expression of the value of fraternities themselves.

To our minds there is little doubt of the value of an idea along the lines of a "Help Week", and we would enthusiastically partake in such a program if it were genuinely constructive. Since this situation is not the case, we concluded that it is better not to participate this year, even though we may receive disapproving glances from village and college officials, rather than participate in a facade of doing good, merely to please certain people.

Some Errors

To the Editor:

In the interest of the Student Educational Policy Committee I would like to correct some errors which appeared in an article "SEPC REPORTS . . ." on page one of last week's CAMPUS.. My opening statement at the SA meeting of Monday, April 13 was delivered in answer to a comment quoted from a college official that "the Curriculum-Faculty evaluations could not be used as a criterion for firing faculty." I stated that the CFEC had never intended such a purpose, and that the administration is wrong if it has so construed the work of that committee. Secondly, I was not justifying the existence of my committee (SEPC), but rather that of the Curriculum-Faculty Evaluation Committee, a suborganization of the SEPC. The "recommendations" I spoke of which haye influenced changes in curriculum in some departments are those of the CFEC, not the SEPC. These recommendations were part of the survey of first semester courses, 1962-1963, which was issued early last Fall. Although I did mention the recently completed SEPC Independent Study Survey at the SA meeting, that report was not the principal topic of discussion.

May I take this opportunity to thank the members of the SEPC 1963-1964, who gave of their time and effort to make the committee active and productive. I would also like to thank the Faculty Educational Policy Committee for their generous time and consideration of our various problems and proposals.

2 Middlebury Students Explore Quarry Tunnels On "Caving" Expedition

by MARK O'REILLY

The advent of spring always causes a stampede from the confines of dorms and fraternity houses to the great outdoors. Activities which have proved perennial favorites include grassing and beer guzzling. Spurning these in favor of a purer communion with nature, the more adventuresome elements on campus have taken up "caving."

Introduced to this sport some weeks ago by experienced speliologist Ed Naylor, these hardy few make excursions throughout Addison, Rutland, and Bennington counties each weekend. One such outing began early on a warm Sunday this month and included only Steve Pletcher and myself.

Traveling south, we went in search of Purgatory Pit at Mount Dorset on Rt. 7. Following directions in Caves of Vermont, we tramped through the hills in the area for several hours to no avail. Eventually, we stumbled upon the quarries of the Vermont Marble Company. Taking advantage of the fact that the quarry was not operating, we rapelled 40 feet down into the main shaft and walked along the railroad tracks on its floor.

Inside the entrance, the tracks were flanked by massive machinery controlling lights and power. Our flashlights poked feebly into the blackness and reflected only dim clues as to the true dimensions of the rooms. As we walked along the tunnel, our eyes became used to the dark, and we saw huge pillars of stone supporting a broad ceiling some fifty feet above our heads.

We stumbled a quarter of a mile through the inky darkness past giant cranes and stacks of hand tools. Blocks of marble ten feet on a side awaited transportation to the surface. The sound of running water echoed off the walls. Rounding a bend, we stopped, petrified. There were lights ahead! We switched off our flashlights and paused, listening.

It soon became apparent we were alone. I followed Steve up a ladder to a new level, and we found ourselves in the working area. A large light rested on each of several idle stone-cutting machines, and the entire cavern glistened white. Smaller passages led off in various directions, and the walls consisted of a series of ledges where stone had been moved. The floor was covered with marble dust. Where mixed with water, it formed a milky soup which proved a slippery footing.

We snapped several pictures but were not sure a single flashbulb could illuminate so large an area. Steve, a veritable encyclopedia of useless facts and figures, informed me the cavern covered 20 acres underground.

Our curiosity satisfied, we chose to clamber up some fire-damaged steps. We at first ignored them because they appeared none too sturdy. Heaving a sigh of relief that our "escape" was completed and without mishap, we recoiled our ropes, shouldered our pack, and set off to find the several caves we knew to be in the area.

RAPELLING: Steve Pletcher, the other member of the expedition executes a flying movement, of sorts.

Students Attend China Lectures

Three Middlebury coeds, Karen Paullin '64, Ann Parker '66 and Sally Sise '66, attended a conference on China and Chinese communism Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last weekend.

The "China Conference", which dealt with the foreign and domestic policy of China toward the West today, was held at Harvard University in Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Players Elect New Officers For 1964-65

Next year's officers of The Players, Middlebury's drama group, have been elected. They include: Catherine Scimeca '65, president; Courtlandt van Rooten '65, vice president; Donald MacDermid '66, secretary; Ronald Salomon '66, treasurer, and points chairman, Margaret Dunn '66.

New members recently admitted to The Players are John Wallach '64, James Anctil '65, Donald MacDermid and Ronald Salomon, both '66 and Sanford Shaw, Mary Ann Crecelius, Grace Hawkins and Kaaren Wishinski, all of '67.

"This year," commented Miss Scimeca, "has seen an increasing interest in theatre both in participation and audience response, a trend which The Players hope to see continue in the coming year. The theatre art is an integral part of a liberal arts education and an area with which students should keep contact."

A change in the preparation of a tentative slate of next year's productions will be initiated this year. All interested students are encouraged to submit the name of a suggested play and a paragraph about it to "the nearest member of The Players" or send them to Box 1472 by April 27.

The proposed system will be discussed in future issues of THE CAMPUS prior to the student referendum. Student passage of the proposal would send it to the faculty, and eventually to the college trustees for approval.

Fund-Raising Drive To Begin

Campus-wide solicitations for the annual Community Chest Fair will get under way Sunday.

Representatives living on each dormitory floor will solicit contributions throughout next week. According to James Murdoch '64, co-chairman of the fair, it has been a tradition for each Middlebury student to give at least one dollar.

A raffle, sponsored by the fair, will feature over thirty prizes for winning ticket-holders .Raffle tickets will go on sale Tuesday with the drawing Friday night.

Outgoing president, Jean Waller '64, announced the new positions on Monday.

Assistant Will Aid Chaplain

New assistant to Chaplain Charles P. Scott for next year will be John C. Moyer, B. A. from the University of Southern California. Moyer is at present a philosophy major finishing his second year at Presbyterian Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Calif.

Starting in September, Moyer will serve for one year. His background includes youth work, journalism, civil rights, as well as studies in government.

Moyer comes to Middlebury under the auspices of the Danforth Intern Program. Usually a college receives interns from this program for only three years, but Moyer's internship will represent Middlebury's fourth year as a participant in this program.

Purpose of the program is to give theological students experience in campus ministry in the hope that they will consider securing positions as college chaplains.

St. Lawrence, Clarkson Outplay Baseball Team

by KARL LINDHOLM

The Middlebury hardball alignment got off to a rather disappointing start last weekend as the Panthers dropped their first two games to more experienced nines. Friday the Larries of St. Lawrence were the spoilers by a 4-0 count and the next day, in Potsdam, N. Y., the Middlebury squad was the victim of Clarkson 6-3.

In the first game, St. Lawrence's ace hurler Ed Balint, just had too much stuff for the Midd swingers as he struck out thirteen, while issuing only three free passes. John Zawistoski, with two singles, and sophomore Bayard Russ, with a solid two-bagger, were the only visitors to connect off the hard-throwing righty.

Senior stalwart Newt Baker started on the hill for Middlebury and pitched well in his six-inning stint, although he was touched for all of the Larrie runs.

Baker had to contend with a shaky defense as his mates committed four errors which resulted in two unearned runs. In the second inning, St. Lawrence sandwiched two scratch singles around two Middlebury fielding errors to account for three of their four tallies. "T" Tall and Jerry Moppert shut the door on the Larries effectively in the final three innings.

In the second game, sophomore Tom Clark was breezing along in the fourth inning after pitching three innings of no-hit ball and bagging a triple besides, when a pulled muscle sidelined the promising lefty for the remainder of the contest.

Coach Wendy Forbes selected "T" Tall to finish out the fourth inning. However, Tall ran into some troubles in the fifth and was lifted in favor of knuckle ball ace Baker. Baker couldn't stem the inspired Clarkson nine, who loaded the bases with two singles and a walk. The next batter, lead-off hitter Ralph Johnson, smashed a knuckleball that didn't break to deep left field for a grand-slam home run.

This six-run explosion by Clarkson in the fifth closed out the scoring in the game as the Panthers had garnered their three runs in the preceding inning. Wayne Halliwell and Charlie Cox with long doubles and Chip Elfner with a run-producing single were the chief contributors in Midd's three-run fourth inning.

Lacrosse Team Defeats Worcester Tech 6-2

By ALEX TAYLOR

Friday the Middlebury Lacrosse team met Worcester Polytechnic Institute, on the latter's home field. The Panthers came away with a fine 6-2 victory, sparked by the aggressive play of Don McLean, who scored two goals.

The team now has a 2-3-1 record overall, including a 2-2 slate in the New England Intercollegiate Lacrosse League.

The first half of the game was a close, tightly-played affair, with the Middlebury defensive unit turning in a fine performance. They kept the home team scoreless while the offense set up its attack. The Panther attackmen remained impotent until Fred Beams scored the first goal of the half, on a short pass from McLean.

In the second half, the Middlebury scorers found the range.

The Engineers evened the score at one-a-piece early in the third period, but this was to be their last threat of the game. With nine minutes gone in the third period, McLean and Beams teamed up again, this time with the former creasing the nets to put the team ahead 2-1. McLean came back again with his second score of the day five minutes later. He was assisted by Nick Van Nes, who played a solid game from his mid-field position.

In the fourth period, the Panther squad put in one of its best performances of the season.

WPI scored its second and last goal of the game early in the quarter. Then, with four minutes left, Middlebury broke loose for three goals. Perry Hanson scored on a pass from Don McLean for an insurance goal, to put the team ahead 4-2. Seven seconds later, Fred Beams scored unassisted, while the opposition was shorthanded.

Mid-fielder, Jed Maker then finished off the rout by netting a short one with one minute left, putting the final score at 6-2.

Coach Morrone termed the team's performance "gratifying." During the spring trip, three of the games were decided in the last three minutes, with Middlebury on the short

Netmen Shutout By Wesleyan 9-0

By JIM DOANE

Middlebury's hopeful tennis squad was drubbed 9-0 last Saturday by a strong and well-practiced Wesleyan team.

Recently returned from a southern swing complete with warm weather and dry courts, and playing its eighth match of the season, Wesleyan looked much sharper than the Middlebury netmen. The Panthers appeared somewhat pale next to their rivals, and squinted uncertainly into the foreign sunlight.

Captain Weld put up the strongest resistance of the group, drawing his opponent to three sets before succumbing 2-6, 8-6, 2-6.

The lack of outdoor playing damaged the rest of the team even more, and every other match was decided in two sets.

Coach Sommers regards the opener as encouraging in that the mistakes made were those which would be easily ironed out as the season progresses. To be considered also is the demonstrated excellence of this year's Wesleyan team, which also defeated Brown by a 9-0 score. The only other slated opponent with this strength is Dartmouth.

Should Saturday's match be played indoors, the Panthers should win hands down. If the outside courts are usable, the match will be tighter but of more experience value.

W.P.I. Downs Trackmen 97-38; Royer Captures Individual Honors

The Middlebury track team lost its first meet Saturday at Worcester, Mass,. despite outstanding performances by junior Bob Royer and sophomore Glenn Govertsen. Coach Mackey's team was overwhelmed by WPI and suffered a 97-38 defeat.

Depth was the telling factor. Only eleven men scored for Middlebury, with five of these scoring only third place finishes. Twenty-four members of the W. P. I. track team contributed to its 97 point total.

Middlebury was able to win only three events: Eirik Jorgensen won the mile in 4:38.3 with an exceptionally strong final lap, Glenn Govertsen ran a very fast 880 yard run and crossed the line at 1:58.9, and Bob Royer won the high hurdles in 15.7 seconds.

Royer had a banner day, leading both teams in individual scoring with 13 points.

For WPI, Czarnecki and Hawes led a balanced attack, each of them winning two events. Czarnecki won the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes, and Hawes won the 440 yard dash and the intermediate hurdles. WPI swept the pole vault event with a 12 foot jump by Beamer.

Scoring second place finishes for Middlebury were Larry Noyes in the hop, skip, and jump event, senior Larry Dickie in the shot put, sophomore Charlie Ladd in the discus, and Royer, who finished second in the intermediate hurdles and the high jump.

Govertsen and co-captain Tom Suess finished third in the 100 yard dash and in the 220 yard event respectively. Also scoring third place finishes were co-captain Peter Wood in the two mile run, Ned Pinkerton in the 440 yard run, Bill Thompson in the high hurdles, and Don Snyder in the javelin throw. Royer also scored two thirds, in the broad jump and in the hop, skip, and jump.

Coach Stub Mackey was reportedly pleased with the fine individual performances turned in by Jorgensen, Govertson and Royer.

The Middlebury team was noticeably hampered by the poor training conditions that a late Spring perennially imposes. It should be noted that, as of Saturday's meet, Middlebury's own track was still virtually unusable.

The Middlebury team traveled to Williams yesterday and will run its first home meet Saturday at 2 p. m. against Trinity.

By DICK CONANT

Predictions have a way of being wrong more often than not, but if Arthur Daley can predict in The New York Times that the Philadelphia Phillies will win the National League flag, then I can certainly stick my neck out on the chopping block with my own picks in softball for the Blue and White Leagues.

The end of the regular season should find ATO sitting on top of the Blue League, with DU, Starr-Painter, and TC in the three runner-up slots. In the other league, KDR may well reign supreme, with DKE, SE, and ZP dogging the Ranchers' heels.

I'll have predictions later on the outcome of the Championship League.

From predictions let's swing over to post-mortems and look at the games played last week. ATO slashed away at TC pitching for 20 runs, with Cook leading the barrage with two triples and a circuit clout; the TC's treated Tau pitching pretty roughly too, collecting 16 runs with the help of Auker's four doubles.

The Unrushed of Starr-Painter routed the Indies 17-1 with Sodoti's four triples and Boffey's two paving the way.

Gruggel, playing second base, dove for the ball, caught it on the fly, then crawled to second base to double off the runner and complete the season's first unassisted double play. The KDR infield also reeled off another DP as they stopped CP 12-7, Haskell leading a balanced KDR attack and Brown hitting well for CP.

The Faculty could not rally enough men for a game and forfeited to Hepburn.

The Zetes proved to be too much for the Friendly Intellectuals of SE, winning 16-12. Murphy had a homer and a triple for Zete, while Dorf had two singles. Carey hit well for Sophisticated Athletes. Finally, DKE tripped ASP 11-7. Talbott and Buffum each had a double and a triple, while ASP's Freeman banged out three singles.

Interfraternity Council

Help Week Discussed; DKE Penalty Changed

The Interfraternity Council discussed the merits of continuing Help Week this year at its Monday meeting. IFC President John Riker announced that three insignificant projects were offered by the town and fraternities would be of little assistance. An alternate proposal, such as working for the college will be considered next week.

Delta Kappa Epsilon appealed the penalty for its dirty rushing conviction at the Interfraternity Council's meeting Monday and a revision was granted. The penalty is now a $150 fine and social probation until the end of the semester with the exception of Junior Weekend and one other weekend of DKE's choice for its Hawaiian Party.

Riker said this was granted because DKE had already bought the decorations and liquor for the party.

During the reconsideration of the penalty, it was felt that DKE would still feel the social probation because it would not be able to enjoy the new social rules which, Riker said, would probably be ratified at the Wednesday Student Life Committee meeting.

Riker also announced that the IFC would be making more spot checks on fraternity houses. He stipulated, however, that the IFC members who are checking should not go through the house unless an officer of the house escorts him.

He also said that every door in the house must unconditionally be open or the president or escorting officer should have access to the room. Otherwise the fraternity will be prosecuted for violating the social code.

Also Creighton Conner, '64, asked on behalf of the Blue Key, men's honor society that IFC members attend the annual Blue Key tapping ceremonies Thursday, and encourage members of their houses to do so.

JFK Memorial Drive To Begin

Spearheading Middlebury's fund-raising for the proposed $10 million John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library in Boston will be Peter Delfausse '65, student representative of the National Student Committee.

The national committee is coordinating student drives in late April on 2,100 campuses throughout the nation. Middlebury's goal is $1000.

By May 4 Delfausse plans to have student representatives in each dorm to collect donations. In addition, a booth will be set up at the Community Chest Fair.

According to the committee's announcement, the library is intended to further one of President Kennedy's deepest concerns: the need to bring together the world of ideas and the world of affairs; the world of scholarship and the world of decision. Believing that this purpose consistently animated his life, the committee feels that no cause could better serve the late President's memory.

Seniors Receive Honors

Thomas Koch

Thomas Koch '64 will attend the University of Chicago Law School next year on a National Honor Scholarship. Supplying full tuition, the scholarship is renewable for a second and third year.

Four students applied for the grant through Harris E. Thurber, associate professor of political science and college advisor to prelaw students. Performance on the law boards and acceptance by the University of Chicago are criteria for selection.

Judith Denton

Judith Denton '64 has been nominated to participate in the Department of State Summer Internship Program in Washington, D. C. during July and August.

The program gives college juniors and seniors who will be doing graduate study an opportunity to work in various branches of the State Department.

During the two months, the "interns" serve as assistants doing political and economic analyses, research and policy development on various countries.

For summer jobs only, the program does not necessarily lead to a State Department position.

Miss Denton, a political science major, plans to enter the field of foreign relations.

Junior Year Abroad

Four Middlebury women are set to spend their junior year abroad next year.

Studying in Paris will be Virginia Backus, going with the Hamilton College group. Ellyn Clemmer, who will be with the Sweetbriar College group; and Phyllis Thompson, going independently. Lynne Fulton, also going independently, will study at Grenoble, in southeast France.

Social Code . . .

Student opinion indicated support for a social code dealing with open fraternities, open men's lounges, open mens dormitory rooms at specified times. Also included in a proposed code were extended women's curfew and late permissions graduated by classes and facilitated by a partial key system.

According to Delfausse, however, Administration authorities will not consider the opening of men's dormitory rooms. The issues of curfew and key system will be considered in subsequent Student Life Committee meetings, after a more detailed evaluation of their feasibility.

Lacrosse Victory . . .

end each time. Friday's showing proved the squad has the ability to sustain its attack late in the game without running out of gas.

Morrone singled out the fine play of the defense, particularly of goalie Marv Kelley, who stopped several head-on shots.

Also lauded by the coach were junior defenseman Casey Hoffman, McLean for his strong scoring attack, and Don Elmore for his consistently strong work at mid-field. The clearing and riding was the best it has been all year, and the offense picked up its attack measurably in the second half.

Saturday the Panthers encounter RPI at Troy.

The home team is an unknown quantity for the most part, having beaten Middlebury 8-5 in 1962 and lost to them 6-3 last year. Despite these evenly matched performances, the Panthers will go into the game as underdogs, looking for an upset.

April 29 the team meets a crack UNH squad at Durham, N. H., led by their first team All New-England and All-American goalie Brian Poole.

The key to Middlebury success here will be to restrain the opponent's offense, for with the presence of Poole, the Panther's attack will be severely curtailed.

Eight Middlebury seniors have been invited to train for the Peace Corps following graduation.

Newton Baker, Jeffrey House and Donald McLean expect to teach English and in their spare time work on athletic, agricultural or health projects. They will be trained for Gabon, Nepal and Thalland respectively.

Eliot Levinson and Marjorie Lam will be working in different parts of Peru. Levinson will be concerned with community development in rural areas. Miss Lam will work to improve conditions in the urban "barriadas," slum areas around the major cities.

Joseph Aulisi and Peter Meyer were notified by the Corps on Monday of their acceptance into the program. Aulisi will work in Maylasia and Meyer in Niger.

Judith Williams has been accepted, but not assigned to a country yet. Her frst choice is Brazil.

All eight must pass medical tests and successfully complete the two or three month training period before becoming full volunteers.

Senior Wins Court Waiver

Addison Municipal Court waived extradition proceedings last Friday against a Middlebury College senior; the student was charged by New Hampshire authorities with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

According to an article in The Burlington Free Press the senior man was charged with "enticing a 17-year-old girl to leave New Hampshire for an abortion." She has been missing since April 4. A police network alarm is currently out for the girl.

State's Attorney Peter Langrock, of Middlebury, issued a fugitive from justice warrant against the student following receipt of the delinquency warrant from the Lebanon, N. H. authorities.

The college student appeared April 14 in court and was remanded to Addison County Jail. He made $2,000 bail and secured his release the next day.

The student, now out on bail, is awaiting action by the New Hampshire authorities involved in the case. No trial or hearing in Middlebury is set for the immediate future.

Faculty, Student Policy Groups Have Meeting

A student evaluation of Middlebury's Independent Study program provided a topic of discussion at a joint meeting of the Faculty Educational Policy Committee and its corresponding student committee, SEPC, Tuesday.

In addition to considering the SEPC's recent Independent Study Report, the groups also focused attention on a proposal to return final exams and a request to hold seminars, on nights other than Tuesday.

Eight juniors, representing each division of the college, will replace the graduating seniors on the SEPC. New members include Howard Tolley and Elizabeth Fink, social sciences; Douglas Johnson and Susan Tompkins, natural sciences; Jean MacCormack and William Lord, humanities; Marshall Eddy and Ruth Tomasi, languages.

Tolley was elected acting chairman at an SEPC meeting Friday.

Joint Library Groups Meet

Several recommendations, including one favoring an increase of student jobs in the Library, were approved Thursday by the Faculty Library Committee and its student counterpart.

According to Peter Meyer '64, head of the student committee, no resolution was made, but both the Committee and the Library were unanimous in approving the proposals.

Besides more student jobs, the Committee had recommended that the Library have longer hours, extend the book loan period and install a duplicating machine. Meyer hopes that suggested changes will come next year.

He pointed out that most students do not know about library facilities already available. Discussion and seminar rooms, for example, can be used by asking the librarian. To inform students about such facilities, Meyer soon plans to conduct a publicity campaign.
